

Information Technology

We represent buyers, vendors, licensees, licensors and service providers in a wide variety of information technology (IT) matters. Working closely with attorneys in our Intellectual Property and Venture Capital & Emerging Companies practices, we offer legal guidance, practical business experience and a commitment to your success.

REPRESENTATIVE EXPERIENCE

- E-commerce services, including online sales, auction rules and procedures, supply chain transactions, digital signatures and electronic contracting, including click-through agreements
- Website services, including website audits, agreements dealing with design, implementation, hosting and maintenance, advertising and linking, privacy policies, terms and conditions of use and security
- Software licenses, maintenance agreements, escrow arrangements, development agreements and application service provider (ASP) contracts
- Hardware and computer system acquisition and integration agreements
- IT outsourcing agreements
- Securing and protecting intellectual property rights, including copyright and trademark searches and registrations, trade secret and non-disclosure agreements
- Patent, copyright and trade secret licenses and technology transfers
- Internet domain issues, including dispute resolution and cybersquatting actions
- Disaster recovery agreements
- Consulting and professional service agreements
- Help desk and support service contracts
- Database license agreements
- Joint ventures and project development agreements
- Compliance with federal and state laws regarding the Internet and software, including privacy, unsolicited email (such as spam), child access and exporting software
- Litigation and dispute resolution, including infringement and breach of contract claims